GENERAL POLITICAL NEWS.

THE PROPOSED NEW PARTY.

No Agreement in the Committee on Plat-MUSIC HALL, CINCINNATI, OHIO, May 20 .- Just as had been anticipated, the committee on platform of the national union conference has struck a snag. The body met last night and organized by the selection of Ignatius Donnelly of Mignesota as chairman and Robert Schilling of Milwaukee as secretary. At the very outset of Milwaukee as secretary. At the very outset the question was raised as to whether a platform was to be constructed for a brand-new party or whether it was simply intended to issue a declaration of principles without any united movement at the back. Debate pro and con waxed fast and furious, Gen. Weaver leading the opposition to the third party movement, and when, at 3 o'clock this morning, the members of the committee worn out and members of the committee, worn out and sleepy, agreed to adjourn the question was still undetermined and not the first line of the platform had been framed.

ASSEMBLING AT MUSIC BALL. There was a delay of an hour in getting the delegates together in Music Hall this morning. The large attendance of yesterday had been further added to by the arrival during the night of the belated delegates from the west, northwest and south, to a total of a hundred or northwest and south, to a total of a hundred or more. Prominent among the new faces was that of ex-United States Senator Van Wyck of Nebraska, who went into the farmers' movement after leaving the Senate four years ago. Prior to the opening of the session there was a conference between representatives of the various elements regarding the baptismal name of the new party in case it should be born. The recommendations were numerous. Some favored "The National Party." Others thought "The National Union" would be a capfavored "The National Party." Others thought found supporters, and several argued that "The Independent Party" would obviate the charge that it was a class organization. It was also argued that it would be a fatal mistake to adopt as a title "The Union agriculturists against the toilers of the cities.

No definite decision, however, was arrived at. definite decision, however, was arrived at

CALLED TO ORDER. It was after 10 o'clock when the convention was called to order. Ex-Congressman and Rev. Dr. Gilbert Delamatyr offered a fervent supplication for Divine aid and support for the new movement, which was punctuated by numer-ous "amens" from the audience.

After this it was developed that although the expense of organizing and holding the conven-tion had been less than $500, there was nevertion had been less than $500, there was nevertheless a deficiency in the treasury, and so an hour or more was occupied in taking a hat collection while the venerable greenbacker, Jessie Harper of Illinois, made one of his characteristic side-splitting addresses. The report of the committee on credentials, which was next presented, showed that thirty-four states and territories were represented by 1,417 delegates having proper credentials. Kansas headed the list with 411, Ohio second, with 317; Indiana had 154, Illinois 38, Kentucky 59, Nebraska 94,

She did not propose, she said, to be identified with any movement that recognized as a prominent officer of the local reception committee a liquor dealer who permitted a rum seller to act as chairman of its mass meeting as was the case last night. This meeting would formulate demands to suit all within the party or candidate.

CHICAGO, May 20.—A special dispatch from Omaha, Neb., says: A plan developes on the part of the independent party of the state which will, it is thought, further complicate the gubernatorial muddle in Nebraska. The party leaders announce that a convention will be called in the near future at which a candidate for governor will be nominated on the theory that since Boyd was declared ineligible to office Thayer can hold over only until the fall election. They insist that at that time a full party vote will be cast for a governor, and proceedings will be immediately instituted against the present in-

SIGNOR CRISPI'S LITTLE JOKE. Rogus Representatives of African Royalty Foisted on the Court.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE EVENING STAR. Berlin, May 20 .- The Saale Zeitung prints a special dispatch from Rome giving the details of a new scandal regarding ex-Premier Crispi. It appears that a few years ago, when the late premier was intent on the establishment of an Italian empire in Africa, he brought to Rome a Italian empire in Africa, he brought to Rome a so-called Abysinian princess and her two brothers. As a matter of policy the dusky princes and princess were treated with great consideration by the courts of the quirinal. Their object in visiting Rome was to do homage to the soverign of the new empire, and the occasion was signalized by a series of brilliat fetes given by the king and queen and several of the highest nobility. At one of these, Queen Margherita conferred the greatest honor possible upon a subject by kissing the princess on the mouth. The only cloud that marred the brilliancy of the festivities in the eves of the taxpayers was the entry cloud that marred the brinancy of the festivities in the eyes of the taxpayers was the fact that those given by the government cost 575,000 francs or $115,000, which the already overburdened citizens were compelled

The pseudo princess was only a grande dame of the Cairo demi-monde, while her pretended brothers were ignorant blacks, who had been carefully coached to play their respective parts. The dispatch states that the proofs of the conspiracy are abundant and that the facts are fully established. The scandal has aroused the greatest indignation and will be made the subject of an early interpellation in parliament.

THE TARRYTOWN DISASTER.

Little Remains at the Scene to Tell of the Great Wreck. TARRYTOWN, N.Y., May 20.-Little remains at Hoes Pond, a mile from here, on the New York Central road, to tell the tale of the explosion which yesterday morning killed thirteen persons and horribly wounded twenty-two others. The workmen had filled up the hole made by the explosion, repaired the tracks and piled away the debris. Travel was going on as usual. Undertaker Vanderbilt is embalming the bodies of the dead men which were taken to his shop.

morrow. Some of their friends are up here making ar rangements. Chief Detective Humphrey of the New York Central road and his staff met Coroner Mitchell here at 11 o'clock this morning to confer with him regarding the inquest, which will probably be held on Monday. Yesterday it was reported that thirteen men were dead and five others missing.

THIRTEEN WERE KILLED. This morning, so far as can be ascertained, the number of dead are actually known as thirteen. This is official from Coroner Mitchell. The coroner reports from the information that he has he still believes that there are five bodies in the river.

The coroner says these men's names or numbers have not been checked off from the numbers have not been checked off from the list of those who are supposed to have been on the car at the time of the explosion and the men are still missing. The river is being dragged for their bodies. Two men who were fishing on the banks of the river near the scene of the explosion are reported to have been blown into the river. This report, however, cannot be verified until the men who are dragging the river have completed their labors.

Coroner Mitchell has given permission for the burial of the bodies of the dead Italians. They will be buried tomorrow in the old Sleepy Hollow cemetery. dollow cemetery.

It is now said that the explosion was caused by a spark from a pipe that was being smoked by one of the Italians who sat upon the flat car containing the dynamite.

No additional bodies have been found in the river and the work of dragging for bodies has

New York, May 20 .- In the stock market this morning the rally of yesterday afternoon mained devoid of feature, there was a general upward movement toward the end of the hour, and the leading stocks scored large fractional gains, St. Paul crossing 62. Beyond the continued activity in St. Paul there was no special feature of interest in the market. At 11 o'clock it was fairly active and firm to strong at fractional gains over first prices.

Money is easy at 4½ and 5 per cent. The transactions in the stock market after 11 o'clock were still devoid of feature of interest, but on a very moderate business the firm tone was maintained without material change in quotations. Sugar, however, was an exception to the rule, being weak and losing a large fraction, but there was no other change of importance and prices yielding toward noon the market at that time was quiet and heavy generally at small fractions better than first prices.

THE THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT. It is Likely to Be Injured by the Cincinna

not be considered as representative of the third party movement or as in the interest o that movement, though a majority of its promoters so regard it. It is on the contrary one of the dangers which lie in the way of the proposed new organ-ization. It is an irresponsible assemblage of men who believe in the alliance or some of men who believe in the alliance or some other organization designed to aid the laboring masses who are not organized and acting with any steady purpose. It is such a meeting as is apt to furnish opportunity for disagreement that might wreck the whole alliance scheme. It leaves no doubt, however, of the earnestmess of the purpose to context ground with two the various elements possessing cohesive qualities which will hold them together long enough to start a new party. If the conservatives can control this meeting escaping the dangers that threaten them; If they can give the convention a neutral quality the third-party movement will have been given a great shove forward. SENATOR CARLISLE'S VIEW.

Senator Carlisle, who has returned to his home in Covington, said to me Monday evening that he did not think the various elements interested in the movement could hold together long enough to form a great party. It was difficult, he said, to form a compact body in politics or any class, trade or profession.

He regarded the movements seriously, however, and said that there was of necessity much that was good in any such movements. That its purpose was to accomplish good, and it was merely a question of method of what would accomplish most good for the people generally. All such movements, he said, grew out of the need of some sort of reform and the men interested in them were generally reasonable, and if it was pointed out to them so that they could see it that there was a better method than that they were advocating they would adopt the better. J. P. M.

"It is a clean, safe, business-like administration; one that has added materially to our prosperity and that promises of more generally distributed plenty than any in our history. The record of two vears is without spot or blemish and the republican party is thoroughly unified. Of course there are a few kickers, but they are invariably men who have failed, since March 4, 1889, to secure official position and its consequent reward.

"The next republican nominee? Benjamin Harrison. He cannot fail to be renominated, and you will find that sentiment to be universal and overwhelming when the convention assembles a year hence."

THE CINCINNATI CONVENTION WILL BESTILT IN NEW PARTY, BUT IT WILL BE WEAK-A BUL-WARK AGAINST THE FREE COINAGE HERESY-WHO WANT FREE COINAGE. That rather unique political character, Col. "Cleveland," was the ready reply. "The fight now being made on him will fizzle out in convention. The country will have reasons for feeling gratified if the opposing tickets are headed, respectively, by Harrison and Cleveland. headed respectively, by Harrison and Cleveland. Why? Because no matter which was elected the victor would stand as a bulwark between the people of the United States, and that peculiar and unreasonable brand of foolishness which is labeled "free coinage of silver." Neither Harrison nor Cleveland would permit a free coinage bill to become law if by any means in their power they could prevent it.

WHO WANT FREE COINAGE. "Who wants a free coinage law?" the colonel went on. "Not the long-headed and farsighted business man; not the conservative element. The only people who clamor for it are the impecunious, the men who are in debt and who think the measure would create funds with which their obligations could be wiped out; the folks who need money and who believe the law they ask for would fill their pockets. It must be plain to every man of common sense that the act would do nothing of the sort, but that the act would do nothing of the sort, but the demagogues have a good deal of the floor just now. None of the solid, reliable newspapers advocate free coinage, and if Cleveland is nominated you will have opportunity to notice a great change in the alleged sentiments of democratic leaders. It looked last Congress as though every democrat was for free coinage; appearances were deceptive. The political descendants of Jackson and Machiavelli simply wanted to pass a free coinage bill for the purpose of having President Harrison veto it. They figured on putting the republican party in a hole. When there is any probability of the democratic party going into the excavation you will not hear any democratic advocacy of free coinage."

The Board of Control Heartily in Favor of the American University. The board of control of the Epworth League held its annual meeting in St. Louis on May 14 and 15. Delegates from all parts of the United States were present and even the Sandwich Islands were represented. Resolutions bearing on the American university were unanimously adopted, stating that the board had learned with genuine satisfaction of the measures taken for the founding of a great national university in the city of Washington, District of Columbia under the patronage of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and that the bishops representing the entire church had indorsed the proposed university in unqualified language. The board of control, representing the young people of Methodism, and recogniz-ing the close relation between the Epworth ing the close relation between the Epworth League and the American University, whose ob-ject is the higher education of youth, would gladly unite in the indorsement of the bishops and commend this national educational enterprise to the Epworth League of the church.

Joseph Fielden's Trial. In the Criminal Court today before Judge Bradley the trial of Joseph Fielden, well known as a pugilist, for an assault with intent to kill Henry C. McCeney in November last by striking him with a cane, was resumed, District Attorney Cole and Mr. Clagett for the trict Attorney Cole and Mr. Clagett for the government and Maj. J. McD. Carrington for the defendant. It was testified that they were in a saloon on 13th street and when McCeney invited parties to drink Fielden would join them; that McCeney finally told him he would submit to it no longer and that subsequently McCeney was struck and knocked senseless, the wound confining him to his room some days and requiring him to be under medical treatment for over a month. McCleney denied that he had offered to strike Fielden, but admitted that before he was struck he picked up a champagne opener and Fielden, but admitted that before he was struck he picked up a champagne opener and asked what it was, and that there had been no words till he refused to loan Fielden some money, when Fielden threatened him.

For the defendant it was testified that the parties had been fencing and McCeney's cane was broken. Subsequently McCeney advanced on Fielden with something in his hand, and Fielden stepped back and struck him with the cane.

Death of Mrs. N. W. Halstead News has been received by the ladies of the Mount Vernon Association of the death on Monday, May 18, of Mrs. N. W. Halstead, the wice regent of New Jersey. She was one of the most active and zealous members of the asso-ciation, and through her exertions the Lafayette room at Mount Vernon was fitted up by the state of New Jersey in strict accordance with the style of Gen. Washington's time, she with the style of Gen. Washington's time, she herself contributing furniture of that date belonging to her own family. Her husband, the late Gen. N. Morris Halstead, shared her enthusiasm on the subject of Mount Vernon, and was, while he lived, a member of the advisory board, to which he gave much valuable advice and assistance. Mrs. Halstead was Miss Marsh, and was descended from well-known and distinguished New Jersey and New York families, such as the Daytons. Conklins, Gardiners of Gardiner's Island, &c. She left no children, and it is understood that her fortune will go to charities under the control of the Presbyterian church, of which she was a fervent and zealous member. Her funeral will take place on Thursday, May 21, from her late residence, Hillside-on-the-Passaic.
